Woodland Ranch developer meets with council

More questions than answers

The Planning Advisory Committee of Anson, Hindon and Minden presented its concerns about a lack of co-operation or information regarding the Woodland Ranch development at a meeting with the venture's president last Tuesday.

Planning Advisory Chair Darryl Moore was blunt when asking Woodland Ranch president Greg Darroch what his intentions were for the property within the confines of Minden Township. The property also includes portions of Dysart and Stanhope Townships. "We are very concerned with what is going on with the property and we would like to know. We have to answer to everybody in the municipality," said Moore. On hand were several residents from Soyers Lake. Property owners on that lake have expressed concern over an application to draw water from Little Soyers Lake to irrigate a golf course planned for the development.

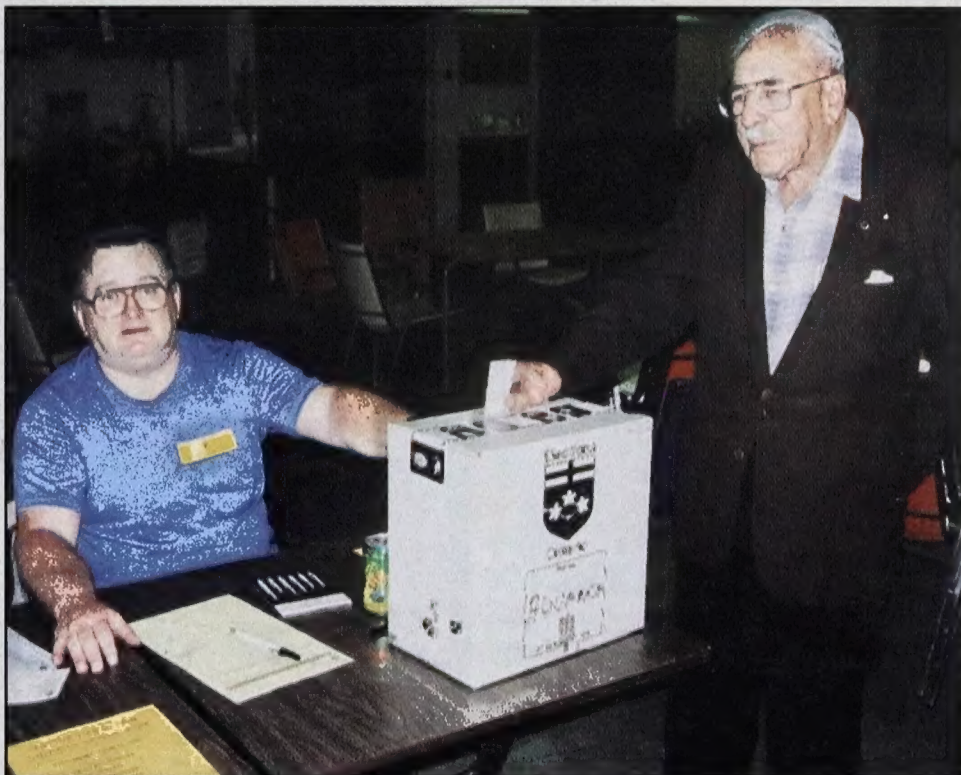

Greg Darroch, who had just flown in from British Columbia, explained that it was his intention to build a "private resort of substantial size," which would include horseback riding, mountain biking, hiking trails, a golf course and two to three thousand non-transient recreational vehicle sites. He noted that he was still unsure of the zoning procedures in the municipality, and was hoping to work within the current zoning status.

Darroch said that in British Columbia, municipal laws differ greatly from those in Ontario. "Business in Ontario is different than British Columbia," said Darroch.

According to the developer, currently six holes on the golf course have been cleared and surveyed.

X FILES: The election process began last week in Haliburton-Victoria-Brock as voters went to the polls early to mark their ballot for this Thursday's provincial election. Minden resident Al Stott, right, drops his ballot in the box as deputy returning officer Ed Burke watches. The three day advance poll at Hyland Crest attracted 345 voters, about the same as the last provincial election. Polling stations will be open on election day, Thursday, June 3, from 10 a.m. to 8 p.m.

Precast floor panels were being swung into place last week as workmen completed the block walls for the lower level of the new long-term care area at Hyland Crest. Once the panels are secured and the surface finished, blocks will be laid for the second level of the wing. According to the contractor, the work is progressing on schedule in Minden and is a bit ahead of schedule at the Haliburton Hospital.

Application made to federal government for funding

Minden could be centre for university research

Minden may become the site of a university centre for research, if a local committee's grant proposal is accepted by the Social Sciences and Humanities Research Council.

Jim Blake made a presentation to Anson, Hindon and Minden council at its regular meeting on May 27, explaining plans to open Haliburton County to university research and learning, through the U-Links committee.

U-Links, which stands for University Links for Community-Based Education and Research in Haliburton County, is a committee of the newly formed Haliburton County Community Co-operative. "The goal is to connect businesses and organizations in the county who need to have research done and universities with students who need to do research," said Blake. "It's difficult for small groups to access universities and hard for universities to access Haliburton County."

Although, initially the contact has been made with Trent University, through the Trent Centre for Community Based Education, Blake stated that eventually other universities could come on board to ensure a wide range of research sources. The Haliburton Highlands has a long standing relationship with Trent University, as Professor John Wadland has been working with students on the institution's bioregionalism project here for the last decade, providing an ongoing connection between the community and Trent.

Blake explained that U-Links, the Trent Centre and Trent University applied for a grant from the Social Sciences and Humanities Research Council. The funding, which has been created by the SSHRC, under the Community University Research Alliance, would see a $200,000 grant split between the three partners, to create a research centre. The municipality has already said the upper room of the Anson, Hindon and Minden municipal office would be made available for students to carry out their work, as well as to allow local residents access to the information. "This could be the great literature centre for the county. The potential here is really exciting," said Blake.

Council agreed that the project was a fantastic opportunity for the area and was willing to be involved with the proposal at this stage. If the letter of intent is accepted by CURA, then the partnership must write a full proposal, with all of the outside partners on board. "With such a strong college presence in the area, I think that it's rather exciting that a university wants to bring its expertise to the county," said Deputy Reeve Jerry Rome. Blake also invited council to think about any possible research topics that the municipality might want to have investigated.

According to Blake, if the grant was to be approved, the centre could be operational by the spring of 2000.

Council wants detailed plans of development

"We've really seen nothing like a proposal. If you are going to strip trees off the land we need a proposal. This has been going on for months and we've seen nothing. We've got to see something on paper. You have got to make a commitment," said Darryl Moore. Reeve Jeanne Anthon said that she was surprised that Darroch still had preliminary questions at this stage of development. She also noted that the introduction of that many families in an RV park was tantamount to building another community in Haliburton County.

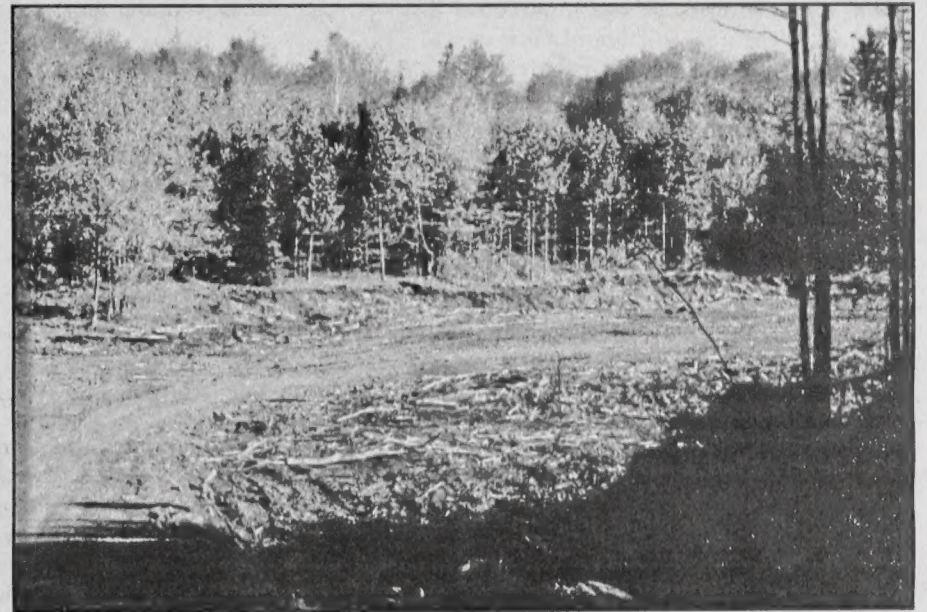

A letter was sent to council on April 6, with an outline of the project, but members of the committee, which includes all members of council, were adamant that they wished to see a much more detailed prospectus of what the project will entail, as well as a time line for the work. "We want this issue dealt with. You can't keep doing what you have been doing on this property," said Moore. Reeve Anthon also suggested the developer should apply now for an exemption to the Haliburton County tree cutting by-law.

The Planning Advisory Committee felt that, at the very least, a zoning change and an official plan amendment would be needed to accommodate recreational vehicles on the site. Moore also advised that Anson, Hindon and Minden would not "act as agents" for Darroch for the municipalities of Stanhope and Dysart. Representatives of those jurisdictions were in the public gallery during the exchange of information.

Darroch stated that, while in the province, he would put together a proposal for the committee to review. He also asked to make an appointment with Planning Administrator Sherry Rea, to discuss what needed to be done. He noted that he would like to focus on the Minden Township section, the recreational vehicles, and then begin to develop the remainder of the property. Both Jeanne Anthon, and Councillor Grant Plooard felt that in order to sell lots for recreation vehicles, it would make more sense to build the activity, and recreational facilities to entice possible buyers.

The Planning Advisory Committee will meet with Darroch again on July 6 to discuss the progress.

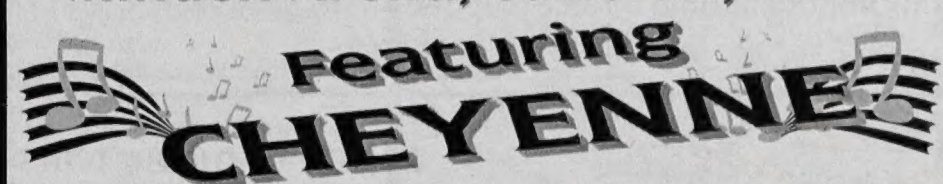

Extensive logging taking place on the Woodland Ranch property and development, without a plan, is worrying the Anson, Hindon and Minden municipal council. It has asked owner Greg Darroch for more details on how he plans to create a 36 hole golf course, RV park for two to three thousand vehicles, dude ranch and an extensive trail network.

Final showdown for candidates

The candidates in the upcoming provincial election had one last opportunity to face each other in a public forum last Tuesday evening in Lindsay. The all-candidates meeting, sponsored by the Retired Teachers of Ontario, Victoria/Haliburton Chapter, drew a crowd of more than 200 to Moose Lodge. All hopefuls, except Maxim Newby, who represents the Natural Law Party, were on hand to lay out their platforms. Those on stage included incumbent Conservative Chris Hodgson, Liberal Sharon McCrae, NDP Rick Denyer, Freedom Party candidate Charles Olito and independent Brad Bradamore.

While their opening statements generally followed the remarks in last week's report of the Bobcaygeon all-candidates meeting, it was during the question and answer period that issues were explored in greater detail. As the local incumbent and a key member of the government for the past four years, many of the pointed questions were directed at Chris Hodgson.

One member of the audience, demanding what he described as a simple "yes or no answer", asked Hodgson if it was his or his government's intention to privatize the operation of the new jail being built in Lindsay. Hodgson said his government's first priority was public safety and, as a few members of the audience called out for an answer, said he would not, in the heat of an election campaign, offer the simple response the questioner was looking for. In response to an earlier inquiry on the same subject, he pointed out his government had, "...reorganized correctional services since taking office, closing some facilities and announcing plans for new ones..." He said the cost of providing correctional services in the province had been too high.

Liberal Sharon McCrae and NDP candidate Rick Denyer both said they would not let the jail be managed by a private company. Denyer said he did not want to see United States corporations making money from our jails. Sharon McCrae agreed, saying the money paid for the operation of the jails should go back into Ontario's economy.

Moving onto education, one questioner suggested that Ontario ranked 55th in per pupil spending in North America and asked the candidates what they would do to rectify that standing.

McCrae said the Liberal Party would repeal Bill 160, the far-reaching legislation introduced by the Conservatives which changed the way education is managed in the province. "We will invest more in education," she told the audience.

Denyer said that his statistics show there are 44,000 more students in Ontario and 1600 fewer teachers. "Does that sound like smaller class sizes?" he asked.

Hodgson took issue with the ranking, saying it was based on equivalent American dollars. He suggested that if the exchange rate went up a few cents, the province would move to near the top of the list. He said his government had increased the amount spent on education and had "levelled the playing field across the province" so that per pupil spending is the same in all jurisdictions.

Another questioner asked why there is a shortage of teaching materials in area schools.

Hodgson said the per student allotment in the local school board had increased $75. McCrae said the Liberals would invest an additional $1 billion in education across the province, including the addition of more special education assistants. She said even though the Tories had promised to cut waste, they hadn't done a very good job and pointed out that boxes of the new secondary school curriculum had been delivered to elementary schools throughout the area.

A student asked why the tuition fees for post secondary school education was rising ten percent per year.

Denyer said his party would reverse the increase and fund the difference by cancelling the tax cut to individuals who are earning more than $80,000 per year.

Hodgson said his government had introduced programs to help students who did not have sufficient resources, creating, in co-operation with corporations, a student opportunity fund, allowing students to write off the interest portion of their loans against provincial taxes. He also said that the government's policies had stimulated economic growth increasing the possibility of employment after graduation.

McCrae said the Liberals would cut tuition fees by 10%. "Everyone needs a good education," she said adding that financial considerations should not be an impediment to those who have the grades to go on to further studies. McCrae also said the Liberals would push for more adult education opportunities and suggested that age 17 is too young to be sending students to college or university, a reference to the Conservative plan to reduce high school to four years.

A member of the audience pointed out that Ontario was the only province where the number of children living in poverty was increasing. The questioner wanted to know what the parties would do to reverse the trend.

McCrae promised to increase shelter allowance for single parent families, create a Ministry of Children and re-instate adult education to increase the employment opportunities for adults in the lower economic brackets. "Children must come first," she said, "they are our future."

PRE-PLANNING... A THOUGHTFUL WAY OF CARING

When you die, your loved ones will have to deal not only with their sorrow and loss in your passing, but also with the many details and decisions required in planning your funeral arrangements.

By caring enough to pre-plan these arrangements you can ease the burden of your family during this difficult time. With pre-planning, you specify arrangements that might have otherwise caused sadness, confusion, even differences of opinion among family members. You make the choices - even determine the cost - involved in your funeral; bringing peace of mind to yourself and your family with the knowledge that they will not have to decide what your wishes might have been.

Planning for the future is logical, wise and caring.
 Don't let this important time be an exception.

Denyer said his party would reverse the income tax cut for those earning over $80,000 per year and direct that money toward programs to help the poor. The NDP would re-introduce rent control and raise the provincial minimum wage. He noted that 60% of the people earning minimum wage in the province are women.

"One child living in poverty is one too many," Hodgson said. He pointed out that by reducing taxes, his government has created more jobs. He also said the workfare and learnfare are two programs designed to help people get off welfare and back into the work force.

Hodgson also mentioned the Conservative's Superbuild Fund as a way of encouraging economic growth. He noted his government had approved expansions to Highway 35, Sir Sandford Fleming College and Ross Memorial Hospital in this riding.

McCrae countered by noting that much of the province's highway infrastructure has been downloaded to municipalities and that the lower tier may find it too costly to maintain the additional road infrastructure.

Regarding the provincial debt, McCrae said the Liberals are concerned about the deficit and the debt, but are also committed to making additional investments in the province's health and education systems.

Hodgson pointed out that his government had promised to balance the budget in five years and said they were well on the way to doing so. He said the tax cuts introduced by his government had provided a stimulus for the economy thereby generating more tax revenue.

Denyer added that the buoyant economy south of the border had provided the major boost to the Canadian and Ontario economic well-being.

In an emotional appeal, an elderly lady from rural Victoria County addressed Hodgson. She asked why the policies of Premier Mike Harris have resulted in the polarization of the population. "Why does your government belittle and shame those who are on welfare?" she asked. "Why does Premier Harris turn fellow Ontarians against each other?"

"I am sorry you feel that way," Hodgson responded. He explained that his government has attempted to rescue the province from, "the uncompetitive position it was in four years ago", and encourage its economic growth. He said the government programs had, "...liberated 400,000 from the welfare trap.." and said the Conservatives wanted to make

Ontario the best place in which to live.

"The attitude of the Harris Tories is one of the reasons I am running in this election," McCrae told the audience. She said that the attitude of the Tories was, "...not the kind of Ontario we support. You deserve better than that."

In her closing remarks McCrae said the Liberals would, "do things in the right order....repair the damage to health care and our education system," and balance the budget. She said the Liberals would ban the use of government money for partisan advertising, increase the number of places in the province's medical schools and pay the tuition of medical graduates who agree to work in under-served areas.

Denyer reiterated his party's stand on reversing the tax cut to the wealthy and for investing more money in education and health care. "We will stop the move to the American-style health care and introduce a patient's bill of rights," he told the audience. He said the NDP would block any move toward charter schools, cut post secondary tuition by 10%, protect the funding for kindergarten, and junior kindergarten and re-introduce strong worker protection laws.

"We want to continue to bring prosperity to this province," Hodgson said in his closing remarks. He said the Tory government had invested in health care and education and with the tax cuts had, "...turned the province around." He promised more tax cuts including a further 20% reduction in provincial income taxes and 20% reduction in the education portion of the property taxes. He said the tax cuts during the past four years had helped the provincial economy to expand and predicted the additional cuts would do the same.

Editorials Choose wisely

Those who wish to send a signal of disapproval to the Harris government may have trouble getting that message through, especially in this constituency. The personal popularity of the incumbent, plus the fact that he was able to deliver on a large number of major projects in the riding has made his position virtually unassailable.

Unfortunately, those who object to the direction his leader and party have taken this province will have little chance of having their votes, cast as a protest or in a solid belief that one of the other parties can do a better job, register their feelings.

While the riding may have been well-served by the incumbent, there are many who are concerned with the approach the Conservatives have taken in governing this province. The divide and conquer mentality which marginalized anyone who appeared to stand in the way or who made an easy target, is not how we believe Ontario residents want to be governed. This province and country have long histories of doing things co-operatively. This approach has helped to give Canada a special character and appeal even though it sometimes means those who have more, have to do with a little less to help fellow citizens.

In the last four years, that attitude has changed in favour of one of confrontation and a bottom line mentality. While the co-operative approach has been left behind during the past four years, it is not too late to recapture that spirit. Choose wisely this Thursday, for the opportunity will likely not come around again for another four or five years.

Same dollars

Editor:

If you live in Haliburton County, and might be affected by all the racket from the Toronto based Teachers (Teamsters?) Union, please remember that this government is the one that changed the rules so that our children and grandchildren up here now get the same number of dollars per child for education as they do in Toronto's Forest Hill or Kingsway schools.

If you live in Haliburton County, you may not remember that the original approval for hospital expansion was by the Bill Davis government through Murray Fearrey's efforts in 1985. The NDP spent millions, but an ineffective local NDP member did nothing for us.

Liberal Cabinet Minister Lynn McLeod — who gave away 400 Haliburton jobs to a Liberal friend when she took timber rights from the Martin Mill in Harcourt as Minister of Natural Resources in 1989 — also tried to squash the hospital expansion when she was Health Minister by setting up a convoluted plan she thought would prevent the community with coming up with our share of the money to a deadline.

It is good to see so many people acknowledging what Chris Hodgson has done for us. But let's not forget what the Liberals and NDP have done to us in the past.

Editor:

At Tuesday's all candidates meeting, Chris Hodgson came under attack for refusing to confirm that the new megajail in Lindsay would not be privatized. In fact, he has already made that promise. It appears that he now intends to break it!

Mr. Hodgson is quoted in the Lindsay Daily Post on 29 October 1998 as saying "the (Lindsay) facility will be publicly run." He is further quoted as saying, "I think the decision the government made is a wise one and we'll carry it forward in a prudent manner." He then added "the government is not comfortable with changing the way jails are run." Mr. Hodgson said even publicly run, the province will save in the area of $75-80 million, (the same as if it were privatized). Mr. Runciman is also quoted in the same article as saying, "there are just too many unanswered questions," in regards to public safety and the horror stories with U.S. private jails.

In an article in Lindsay This Week, Friday, January 08, 1999, Susanna Zagar, Director of Communications for the Ministry of the Solicitor General and Correctional Services again confirmed that "the Lindsay facility will be publicly operated."

This confirms the assertion that private

Beware of blunt objects

Editor:

Re: 'Appalling...obscene' (letters to the editor May 25), as well as the editorial comment in 'Around the County Town'.

I feel the writers did not go far enough in their witch hunt against the all-pervasive and evil firearms.

There should be additions to their miserably short list. How about pointy scissors, axes and the incredibly threatening and deadly 'blunt instrument'.

Each year, in our fair land, there are deaths caused by all of the above.

It does not make sense to let these 11-14 year old girls anywhere near the pointy, fast, sharp or especially the blunt.

I know I will sleep much better at night knowing that these young ladies will grow up not knowing that death can be caused by that stick on the side of the road or that nameless device that they used to cut paper with, when the roundy ended ones were replaced in grade three.

Thank God I can scratch another phobia off my list.

A victim of propaganda

Editor:

Regarding the letter of Pat Brezina, (May 10):

It appears that Mrs. Brezina has fallen victim to the union and Liberal propaganda. In order to assist her with her search for the truth, I feel compelled to advise her of the following:

The Conservative Party advised the voters of the program they would implement prior to their being elected. The party indicated that there would be tough measures taken to bring the province out of the "tax and spend" mentality and return to fiscal responsibility and rational thinking. They were duly elected.

If you have classes in your school that exceed 30 pupils, you should surely speak to your union and the school board as they have control and responsibility to ensure this is not the case. If you receive no satisfaction from those responsible, you should contact the Ministry of Education immediately and advise them of the situation.

Your education trustees and the school board have the direct responsibility for directing spending within their jurisdiction and if you have concerns that you cannot provide top quality education as the government intended, please contact your trustees and school board immediately.

It is assumed by all, that the work day is filled with work and that there are times when all workers must use some of their own time to complete assigned tasks. In the private sector that is a 265 day average work year. In that year there are not over two months summer vacation, as well as march break, extended Christmas holidays, etc. I believe that all citizens of the province are concerned about instructional time and that teachers should be as well.

You would appear to be concerned about competency testing for teachers, and yet you say there are teachers in the school who are unfit to teach. You suggest that evaluations by principals and vice principals are sufficient and the government doesn't understand education. Mrs. Brezina, you can't have it both ways! Do current methods remove unfit teachers? Apparently not, according to your letter. Can we we assume you are endorsing those teachers who are unfit? Apparently so!

You indicate that the current government has reduced health care spending. Please, please verify this before misleading more of your students and their parents. This statement is blatantly untrue.

You suggest that anyone who supports the Conservatives does not care about the future of their children. Is it credible to assume that all members of the current government and those who support them are involved in an incredible conspiracy to destroy their own children? Well in the context of your letter, this is no less outrageous than the previous seven paragraphs.

In future, before availing yourself of this public forum, I respectfully request you spend some time researching the topic and avoid becoming a propaganda victim once again.

Shirley Brandon,
Minden.

Looking for numbers

Editor:

Archie Stouffer Elementary School needs to know now, whether a new Kindergarten student will be starting in September.

Why now? This is because of the funding formula for schools. Firstly, money for teaching materials, equipment, and books etc. depends on the number of students in the school. Secondly, the number of teachers the school can have depends on the school knowing how many students to expect in September of 1999.

Last year the school was expecting 68 students in Junior and Senior Kindergarten. But over 100 children turned up! As a result the school struggled all year to adjust to this unexpected extra

Aceing the interview

They say hard work never killed anyone, but I figure why take a chance?

It was Ronald Reagan, one of the great goldbrickers of modern times, who made that statement.

The one-time President of the United States was modestly famous for being perhaps the laziest man ever to snooze in the Oval Office. He was, first and foremost, a Hollywood B-movie actor, used to being well paid for looking good and smiling a lot.

I suspect he regarded his eight years in the White House as just one more big-budget Western with an unusually large cast.

Reagan's easy-going attitude to hard work may turn out to be his most powerful legacy — it certainly is if a recent survey is accurate.

A New York research firm by the name of Schulman, Ronca and Bucuvalas (would I make up a name like that?) wondered what kind of kids were showing up at job interviews these days. They sent out questionnaires to the personnel directors of some 200 major American corporations asking them to describe and give examples of the behaviour they'd noticed in employment applicants.

They had no idea what a rotten barrel of apples they were uncorking. Some comments from job interviewers:

- The reason the candidate was taking so long to respond to a question became evident when he began to snore.

- I asked her why she went to college. She replied 'to party and socialise'.

- When I gave him my business card at the beginning of the interview he immediately crumpled it and tossed it in the wastebasket.

Self-help books always advise job hopefuls to 'project a sense of ease and self-confidence. But you can overdo it:

- Without asking if I minded, he casually lit a cigar and then tossed the match onto the carpet.

- She actually showed up for an interview during the summer wearing a bathing suit. She said she didn't think I'd mind.

It's always good to ask intelligent questions about the terms of employment — but the key word is 'intelligent':

- (Applicant) wanted to know if employee perks included a swimming pool, paid lunches at the company cafeteria or a free computer to use at home.

- He handed me a resumé and a note that said he was a recent high school graduate and wanted to earn $45 an hour — 'and not a nickel less'.

And it's always a good idea to do a little homework regarding the company business before you show up for the job interview:

- The interview had gone well until he told me that he and his friends wore my company's clothing whenever they could. At which point I had to tell him that we manufactured office products, not sportswear.

Dumb kids. We were so much cleverer in my day. Why, I remember the time I applied for a job as a reporter with the Montreal Gazette. Hate to brag, but I aced the interview. When we were wrapping up, the interviewer asked if I thought I had "any other skills worth mentioning".

"As a matter of fact, yes" I told him. "Last year I sold two short stories to the CBC and I finished off a novel."

"Very impressive" said the interviewer, "but I was actually thinking of skills you could apply during office hours."

"Oh" I replied brightly — "that was during office hours."

Oddly enough, I never heard from the Gazette....

Kids helping out

Editor:

I would like to acknowledge the contribution and pass along a big "thank you" to two groups of young people in Minden. Lynn Wynan's grade eight class at Archie Stouffer worked hard to clean up the route for the walkers on Sneaker Day. They filled many bags of garbage along Bobcaygeon Road and the walking trail to ensure that the participants would have a pleasant stroll without litter.

Another hearty "thank you" to the Leo Club which spent a recent evening cleaning up the area around the community centre parking lot. As a regular walker around town, it was immediately apparent that they made a big difference!

Many thanks to these great kids! Let's all help support their efforts by picking up the litter around our stores and homes. A clean, well-maintained town does make an impression on visitors to the area and will determine whether they return.

Costly delays

Editor:

Brian Dean, manager of the Haliburton Highlands Chamber of Commerce, was recently charged by the Ontario Provincial Police with three counts of child pornography, one count of making child pornography and one count of unsafe storage of a firearm. I understand these charges were laid as a result of evidence found by search warrants executed at Dean's home, car and the Chamber of Commerce building.

I was the officer who investigated the sex offenses that Dean was convicted of in June 1987. He was arrested for those offenses in August 1986. At that time Dean was a teacher at Cardiff School where some of the offenses took place.

The Haliburton Board of Education suspended Dean with pay up until his plea of guilty. This was quite a cost to the public purse as the Cardiff School had to replace Dean for that period. It is my experience that court proceedings can be prolonged by a defendant for quite a considerable amount of time. My question is, will Dean again draw from the public purse until the conclusion of these charges?

number without additional teaching staff. Kindergarten classes have as many as 27 students.

To avoid a repeat of last year, the school needs to know about any new student now in order to organize staff and classes effectively. Even if some parents are not sure whether their JK or SK child will start in September, he or she should still be registered with the school. It does not commit that child to having to attend if they are not ready in September.

So, if you know of a child who will be age four by December 31, 1999, who has not been registered, please telephone the school at 286-1921.

Legion Track Meet

Haliburton County's elementary school athletes enjoyed a near perfect day for the annual Legion Track and Field Meet at the Haliburton Highlands Secondary School facilities Saturday. Students and teachers from the high school assisted with the operation of the event. Some of the young athletes are seen above competing for top honours in one of the running events. Many of the competitors who took part in Saturday's event are destined to be the track stars of the future at HHSS. Watch next week's Times for results and more photos.

Miller and Cunningham compete with world's best

The second half of Linda Miller's account of her and Keith Cunningham's experiences at the World Palma Long Range Fullbore Shooting Championships in South Africa focuses on the actual competition.

by Linda Miller

And now, the main event! The shooting matches. Well, there sure were a lot of them! Usually four a day, six days a week. We each used about 900 round of ammunition. That's as much as we would normally use in a full year of competition here in Canada!

The matches were well run. The administration (statistics and such) left something to be desired, and culturally, the folks there don't seem to mind changing things at the last moment as much as we do. But they did eventually get everything done. The range was run by a General (Brigadier General Alexander) of the South African Army, who did an outstanding job!

The range itself had over 100 targets, and of course, went back to 900 meters. It was flat and open all around, so the wind swept in magnificently! Although the area is classed as savannah, I think it is at least semi-arid. There's a lot of sand, and it got in everything! Some days, some of us would wrap our faces to keep the sand out of our noses and mouths. I always had either sunglasses or wrap-around safety glasses on to keep the sand out of my eyes.

The first few days were regional matches. Everybody in the world was there, using them as warm-ups for the main events. Those of us from the Northern Hemisphere hadn't shot since last year and we needed to catch up to our Southern Hemisphere friends who have been out training/competing for at least six months! For everyone, though, the warm-ups were a good introduction to the wickedness of the winds.

The next series of events was the South African National Matches. They are structured much like ours, with a few preliminary events, and then a series of eliminations, leading to finals for the top 100 scorers.

Keith and I did very well in these. Keith has enough experience to expect to do well. I, on the other hand, needed to be a little more modest. Given the fact that this is only my third season shooting this long-range fullbore event (my original claim to fame is in the 10/50-metre smallbore events) I was hoping for a finish in the top half. But since I didn't know how strong the competition would be, I didn't know whether this was realistic or pure fantasy!

As it turned out, the competition was tough. For example, one of the preliminary matches (Match 13, The Municipal Match) was won with a score of 100.8; that's from a "possible" of 100, with 8 shots right in the middle of the 10-ring!

Keith shot 99.5 and came 16th and I shot 99.2 and came 43rd! Even more extreme was the result of Match 24, the Jack Mitchley match. The winning score was 50.10 (all ten shots right in the middle of the 10-ring). Keith came 21st with a 50.9. I was 73rd with 50.8! Another way of looking at it is that Keith tied for second with 20 others, and I tied for third with more than 50 others!

Fortunately, I had set myself a performance goal, not an outcome-oriented goal. (I couldn't control outcome, I couldn't control the wind, and I couldn't control the other competitors; I could only control my own performance.) My official goal was as follows: "every shot I take will be completely subconscious" which indicates that I'm "in the bubble" or in the "ideal performance state" for every single shot. Since the entire series of matches comprised about 900 shots, this was an ambitious (but attainable) goal. I'm very happy to say that I did it -- 100% of the time.

There were a lot of times when I just wanted to get the shot off; during difficult conditions when the wind was changing quickly; during team matches when the wind coach is waiting for you to get the shot off quickly; during the finals when you have a limited time for each shot. But I had my goal. I had made my goal public and I could not allow myself to compromise this one thing that I could control.

The range was exceptionally windy, and very seasoned competitors came off the line with low scores and looking shaken. I really felt out-classed by the range and the conditions, until the 'Sandstorm Shoot'! We were firing from 800 meters -- 250 finalists all firing concurrently -- a 15-shot match. Since the wind was howling, the mirage (usually used to judge wind speed) was useless and the only way to keep up with it was to use the flags to read the wind. After about seven shots, I was clean -- I hadn't dropped a point. Then the wind really picked up and brought with it a whole lot of sand. The targets were obliterated, and just before the cease fire was called, 12 of the target frames were snapped off by the wind. Twenty minutes later, the air had cleared, the target frames were repaired, and although it was still very windy, the match resumed. I finished the rest of the match clean!

Success measured in millimetres at 900 metres

In this game, when you shoot a perfect score, you have to have your rifle checked for legality. The officials had been so sure that there would be no perfect scores that day, they had not brought the rifle-checking equipment. I was well satisfied that I had beaten the conditions. Later, I found out that this score, combined with a solid performance at 900 meters, put me in 19th spot for the finals, and pushed my aggregate score up enough to put me in 26th spot overall.

What a great finish for my first foreign Nationals, and especially one attended by the best in the world!

In the World Championships, the Canadian Team finished sixth.

Keith shone in the World's, especially at the 800 meter mound. He shot steadily and consistently and finished with a Bronze medal. He was either first or second on the Canadian Team through most of the matches, and finished 42nd in the world overall.

The unfortunate part of this adventure is that he was destined to finish in approximately 9th place except for an unexplained miss. We suspect that since the match was being shot late in the day the targets were covered with patches from previous holes, the butt markers were inexperienced, hot and tired and that they simply failed to see the hole and indicated a miss.

Keith and I had an additional role as mental management coaches. This was also successful, though we certainly would have preferred to give this group the "full program." But that wasn't what we'd been asked to do this time. We covered the basics of mental management that we thought were particularly appropriate for this particular team: performance focus, mental program, and self talk. As part of the performance focus, we asked the Team Manager to stop referring to Gold medals, and start talking about gold-medal performances. We also debriefed the team as often as possible to help them with both "solution analysis" and "success analysis" — defining what solutions are needed to solve problems and what performance factors contributed to success.

We have now been asked to participate in the development of the "Millennium Team" which will compete at Bisley in the year 2000. (Bisley is like the Wimbledon of Target Rifle shooting.) We are also going to make a proposal to the national sports governing body regarding team development for the 2007 World Championships which are to be held in Canada. This is very much related to the type of work we plan to do as a part of the "not-for-profit" side of the business we are trying to start in Lutterworth Township. The range we are proposing will be used to train potential members for this team.

My employer, Deloitte Consulting, supported our trip to South Africa. Deloitte's values include "work/life balance", and our corporate goal is, in part, "to help our people excel." The only re-payment they ask is that I spend some time talking to my colleagues about the experience. What a pleasurable price to pay!

Kinmount area artisans have new Market Place

In about six weeks, the lower level of the Kinmount Community Centre was transformed into a showcase for the work of the newly formed Kinmount Artisan's Guild. The facility was decorated in a style complimentary to the variety of high quality work of the local artisans.

The efforts of the decorating committee were appreciated by both the exhibitors and the patrons of the Market Place at the grand opening ceremonies on May 15. Patti Fleury called the project a labour of love.

"The Market Place is much more than a storefront," she said. "It is a special place to showcase the talents of our area artisans and to provide opportunities for individual growth and satisfaction. The open house is only the beginning. We must continue to build, to capture the momentum that has come from our members and shines through in their artistic expression."

HHHS approves operating plan for mental health program

The following is a summary items discussed at the regular meeting of the Haliburton Highlands Health Services Board, held May 27.

The operating plan for Haliburton Highlands Mental Health Services was reviewed and approved by the board. The cost, $335,000, has remained at that level since last year. "We have been able to live with that amount," said Executive Director Foster Loucks. "This is one program that has been adequately funded since we took over." It was estimated that the Mental Health Services works with about 300 clients annually.

Foundation report

Health Services Foundation Managing Director Alison Rae, announced that the campaign had reached the $2.2 million mark. In the last four weeks, the foundation had raised $62,600 from various donations, bequests and fund raising campaigns. This included $17,000 raised from donations sent as a result of a flyer included in several municipal tax bills.

Rae noted that there had been discussion about the possibility of a county-wide levy and that the Foundation, at this time, was not in favour of this method of raising money. "We feel that we should be given time," said Rae.

Chair Hugh Nichols stated that he felt a County levy would be necessary and that despite its best efforts, the Foundation would not be able to come up with the $5.5 million needed for the community contribution to the project, as such a large amount had already been raised. "I think that its an incredible testament to our community that it has raised $2.2 million," said Nichols.

Len Salvatori felt that a county levy should be instituted as soon as possible as it would be more effective and cost-effective, to generate capital sooner rather than later. Alison Rae pointed out that donors, especially those interested in making a major contribution would be less inclined to do so if a county-wide levy was instituted. It was also pointed out that because of ongoing need for equipment, training and renovations, the Foundation's fund raising expertise will be needed after the capital projects have been completed.

Operating budget reviewed

Finance Committee chair Ted Wilkes reported on this year's operating budget. It is to be sent shortly to the Ministry of Health for approval. He noted that HHHS was submitting a balanced budget, unlike its counterparts, such as the Peterborough Regional Health Centre and the Ross Memorial Hospital.

Wilkes stated that two important (more on page 20)

was checked. Nothing suspicious was located as a result of the search. The investigation is continuing.

Youth charged

OPP investigated a complaint on North Water Street in Minden on May 23. Further to the complaint of intoxicated youths trespassing, officers attended resulting in a Liquor Licence Act charge being issued.

Assault charges

OPP officers were called to Pine Street in Haliburton following a complaint of an alleged assault. Haliburton By-law Officer Ryan Ladurantaye was attempting to escort an intoxicated individual home, when the he struck Ladurantaye on the arm. There were no injuries as a result of the assault.

Charged with breach of probation and assault was David Patterson, 19, of Dysart Township. He was arrested and held for a bail hearing in Lindsay court on May 24.

Impaired driving

Charges were laid after an officer stopped a motorcyclist on Oak Street in Haliburton Village on May 23. The officer noted that the motorcycle did not have a licence plate.

After an investigation, Harold Reynolds, 40 of Guilford Township was arrested and charged with impaired driving, operating a motor vehicle with a blood alcohol level over the legal limit, driving without a licence, driving without insurance, and driving without licence plates. Reynolds will appear in Minden Court on August 4.

Youth charged with assault

On May 24, OPP investigated an incident at a residence on Still Court in Eagle Lake. At 11:45 a.m. officers were called to a residence after two brothers were involved in an argument. The brothers spoke to officers at the residence.

The younger brother advised that his brother attempted to choke him. No medical attention was required as a result of the assault. The older sibling has been charged with assault. He will appear in Minden Court on July 7.

Break, enter and thefts

On May 23, OPP investigated a break and enter at a cottage on Crystal Lake Road in Galway Township. Some small kitchen and household items were taken.

The same day police investigated a robbery at a cottage on Highland Road in Stanhope Township. A VCR had been stolen.

Police are also looking into a cottage break-in on Shadow Lake Road in Somerville Township. A bedroom window had been broken and some boat gasoline was stolen.

IN FOND MEMORY:

Bob Wells, left, the president of the Victoria County Fire Prevention Association, along with Bob McKeown, presented Sue Douglas with a plaque of appreciation to her late husband Briar. Briar Douglas served with the Somerville fire department for 25 years, since the inauguration of the Burnt River Station, and was an honorary member of the Fire Prevention Association.

HHHS balances budget

footnotes will be added to the operating plan, to send a message to the Ministry of Health.

One will emphasize the lack of data processing allowance. "We have to have data processing in the business we are in and we don't have the money to do it," said Wilkes. The finance committee will also note how dependent the HHHS is on the Peterborough Regional Health Centre and Ross Memorial Hospital in Lindsay. Noting that both of these facilities are major referral centres for patients from the Highlands and both have large deficits, Wilkes said, "if they have reason to cut services to reduce their expenditures, that will have a direct impact on us."

Director Jack Brezina also stated his concern for staff education and training as well. "We have ignored the education of our staff," he said. It was pointed out that money was spent last year on staff training and that one of the mandates of the Foundation is to fund educational training for HHHS staff.

The board approved the operating plan in principle, and will review it further for the next meeting.

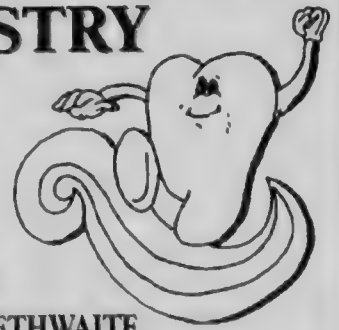

Annual general meeting

Haliburton Highlands Health Services Annual General Meeting will be held on June 24 at 7 p.m. at Our Lady of Fatima Catholic Church in Minden.

Last meeting

While Hugh Nichol will chair the AGM in June, the meeting Thursday was his last as head of HHSS. He has been chair for three years and according to the constitution must step down from that office. He thanked the directors for their support and interest during his three years as head of the organization. He said he was pleased with the progress which had been made and asked the directors and the public to continue to support the new executive in the coming year.

Victoria reorganizes development department

submitted by Victoria County Warden John Macklem

Council took another step toward assuring that promotion of development of the county is a number one priority.

Effective June 7, a new development department will be established which will incorporate the former economic development department and the area planners of the county. "The purpose of this change is to have all resources in one location. This will provide people wishing to develop in our county, one place to get all the answers," stated CAO John Gutteridge.

"We are also interested in trying to make things happen and the best way to do this is to work with the development community. This is not to say that every development proposed in our county will receive approval, but we hope that current and potential developers will feel that we were accommodating to their requests, and if they are turned down, they understand why and feel they were treated fairly," CAO

John Gutteridge went on to say.

One of the other complaints this change will address is the responsibilities downloaded by the province. When the province downloaded some planning responsibilities such as subdivision and condominium approvals, we had a situation where one department was drafting the legislation, and also approving the work. As a result, there was a perception that there was no opportunity to appeal decisions being made. With this change, our approval section will be split off from our development department so as to assure everyone that the process is fair and unbiased.

"We look forward to this change in trying to promote development in our County. We hope it will provide more jobs and assure that our children and grandchildren have work right here in Victoria County," stated Warden John Macklem. "This is not to mention the increase in assessment that we require to keep our taxes reasonable for all our taxpayers," Warden Macklem concluded.

9-1-1 stickers

In order to keep the public aware of the 9-1-1 service, County Council approved the printing of 9-1-1 stickers suitable for attaching to telephones. These will be distributed to all households and businesses within the county.

Economic Development

It's official. The Kawartha Lakes Marketing Partnership has now signed a memorandum of understanding to jointly promote the Kawartha Lakes as a single tourist destination. The three partners involved are the County of Victoria, the Greater Peterborough Economic Development Corporation and the Kawartha Lakes Chambers of Commerce.

For the reporting period of March 22, to April 26, the Economic Development Department responded to 150 requests for tourist information and 40 inquiries for information and/or assistance from 29 existing or would-be business. 18 requests originating from within the county and 11 from outside.

Social Services

The welfare caseloads in Haliburton and Victoria County in February, were lower than the caseloads for the same time period in 1998 by 8.8 per cent.

The county and the province are in the process of signing a memorandum of understanding involving the transfer of sole support parents to the county.

The 1998 savings of approximately $90,000 for both Victoria and Haliburton Counties is being allocated to the Healthy Babies, Healthy Children program.

Requests for suggestions on how best to spend the $60,000 allocated by the province to reduce the problem of homelessness in both Victoria and Haliburton Counties have gone out to community agencies dealing with the Homeless.

Victoria County, through the Victoria/Haliburton Social Services Alliance, will become the Municipal Manager of the Child Care delivery system for the counties of Victoria and Haliburton. The anticipated date for this

TSW water level report

The following report was issued on May 28, by the Peterborough office of the Trent Severn Waterway

The rains that occurred on the Victoria Day weekend gave a welcome boost to all the lakes of the Trent-Severn Waterway. In the Haliburton area, this amounted to an average level rise of 4.5 per cent to reach 86.5 per cent on May 27.

This level exceeded the most recent dry year of 1987 by this date, when the average was about 85 per cent. No release of stored water, beyond minimum flows, from the Haliburton Lakes will be needed next week. The volume of water entering the Haliburton Lakes during this spring (March 15 to May 15) was only about half the normal amount.

Dry weather for the next few days will stop the rise and reduce the surplus on the Kawarthas. Some flow has had to be released from the Kawarthas already to avoid overfilling.

Navigation season is underway on the Trent-Severn Waterway and all the reaches are at navigation levels.

Golfers host tea party

Hello once again. Grab your cup of coffee or tea and sit back while we tell you about our past few days.

Our tea party on Thursday, May 20 was much enjoyed with the Haliburton Highlands Golfers hosting. We had a very pleasant time and we thank them for their treats. The following morning Ruth and Jack Worthington were here to entertain us with their music, which is always great. That afternoon we were again entertained. This time it was the Pickards for Happy Hour. As you can guess, we do love our music.

The Victoria Day weekend was fairly quiet. Not like the rest of the town and surrounding areas. We hear that everywhere was packed to the walls and beyond. It seems that people just want to be up here whenever they can. Aren't we fortunate that we can enjoy it year round? We know that the rain that occurred might have spoiled it for some, but it really was a Godsend. Everything benefited: our gardens, water levels and forests.

During Chapel, on Tuesday morning with Father Fellion, we remembered Evelyn Cox. Quite a few of us attended to pay our respects. That afternoon there was a meeting for volunteers and caregivers. The guest speaker was Sandra Frise from the Alzheimer Society. It was really good to see so many people here. The meeting was very informative and we know that those who attended appreciated the opportunity to learn more about this disease.

The Norland Hillbillies were here for our Pub Night. As usual quite a crowd turned out to enjoy the group. We were very pleased to see Bob back again looking so good and singing once more.

This morning Marg is back in the kitchen with Lilian and Peggy. They are busy baking blueberry coffee cake and something called impossible pie. Sounds interesting doesn't it? We will have to find out more about that, that's for sure. This afternoon is our birthday tea party and it is to be hosted by the Minden Horticulture Society.

There will not be a Senior League column the week of June 7, as the day we usually meet and gather our news it will be voting day here at Hyland Crest so we are taking a week off. We will just have to catch up on our news the following week.

However we are pleased to announce the following birthdays:

Dorothea Lynch - June 1; Peggy Packer - June 2; Sidney Roberts - June 4; Edna McElwain - June 5; Winnifred Barnum - June 6; Lola Prentice - June 11. We wish them all a happy day.

Before we sign off we would like to share the following with you. It was originally written as a message for Evangelism, but we believe it could be applicable for many instances.

I haven't time, I'm rather busy. Perhaps I will if I'm free. My work, my home, my garden need me, I'll really have to see. One day I might think about it, when I'm older, then I will. For the present I can't do it, some time later, not until. I don't think you need me really, I have such a lot to do, Someone else can do it somehow, it doesn't matter who. If I had a bit more money, if I had some time to spare... One day it will be convenient, one day, sometime, perhaps next year. But... please don't think that I don't care.

Then one day, desperate and broken, I cried out: "Jesus! Jesus!" I called his name. "Please come into my life and forgive me my sins." And he heard me! Around the County Town by Nora Snyder (call 286-4450 or fax 286-4425)

Now, can anyone tell me where May has gone? I can't believe it is the last day of the month already!!

It is true that the older you get, the faster the time moves along. Time just slips away. Hopefully we are doing some things we enjoy in that slippage!!

Life is certainly going on around us in our county town these days. It feels like it is time for some good things which I am sure are happening now that we are getting into "the season". It was certainly busy around here on the long weekend!! Hopefully that beautiful rain filled up the rivers, lakes and wells. It certainly made the flowers grow...and the grass!! Back to mowing twice a week at my place!!

Another sign of the fast passage of time is the announcement of another new show at the Agnes Jamieson Art Gallery. I can't believe it!! This latest exhibition, from May 27 until June 12, Wonderful Wood, featuring Marquetry, Carvings, Folk Art, and Furniture will be on display. I wasn't able to get up there for my usual pre-show sneak preview but I will have seen the show for next week's column and will give you my impressions. I hope to see you there too getting your own impressions!!

Pritchard House is also gearing up for the summer. From May 29 until June 26, they are holding an exhibition of handwoven shawls and scarves, made by local weavers. I know there are beautiful works of art to see there!! Also you will be able to watch a two-person 100" loom being worked when you visit. Of course the gift shop is a treat to browse through and perhaps start some Christmas shopping!! I remember a friend of mine bought a gorgeous Afghan there last summer for a wedding present. If you have any questions you can call Pritchard House at 286-3310.

Don't forget the Minden and District Horticulture Society's Spring

Plant Sale at the Gazebo on Friday, June 4. The sale starts at 2:00 p.m. and you need to get there on time!! The early bird gets the plants!! I notice around town that the Society is doing it's work!! The beds are planted along the river and the barrels on the main street and the flower boxes on the bridge are now full of plants. How grateful we all are to the members for their hard "Minden beautifying" work!!

On Sunday, June 6 from 1:00 to 4:00 p.m., at the Lochlin Community Centre there will be a show of the "Highland Carvers". (A nice tie-in with the wood show at the Art Gallery!!) All proceeds will be going to the Haliburton Highlands Hospital Building Fund.

Here's wishing you a very good first week of June!!

SCORING NEWS

Speaking of Lochlin, here are the last Euchre scores from there until the fall. The high and low women were Audrey Vick and Dorothy Milburn. The high and low men were Gerald Hicks and Mervin Gilbert. Don Curry took lone hands and Rheta Crofts won the 50/50 draw. Best wishes for a good summer over your way!!

The Friendship Club at St. Paul's didn't let the holiday Monday keep them apart. They got together for an afternoon of fellowship and cards on May 24 as usual. Betty Barlow won lone hands. Katie Parker was "high man" and Marie Dennie was high woman. Low was Bill Mosley and not to be left off the winner's list where he usually is, was Norm Lee, winning the 50/50 draw.

Last Thursday, May 21, at Echo Hills Apartments in Haliburton, excellent playing and excellent scores at Duplicate Bridge were seen. Muriel McIntosh and Ross Fletcher came in first with 70%. Mike Collins and Nick Lehoczy were second with 52% and Norma Crewson and Vic Matthews were third with 52%.

At Stanhope last Tuesday, May 25, there was a great turnout with enough players for seven tables of Contract Bridge. No slams were bid or made. There was a tie for fourth place with Eddie Jones and Ross Davies both getting 5000 points. Gloria Moore was third with 5110 and Betty Dicker, second with 5430. Betty Culley rose to the top of the order with a great score of 6600!!

Finally, for Bridge for the week, at Park Lane Apartments in Haliburton, playing Duplicate, in the North/South position, Stella McMillan and Ross Davies were first with 63%. There was a tie for second with Norma Crewson playing with Joyce Burtch and Carol McCord playing with Alex McLeod, both getting 55%. In the East/West position, Mike Collins and Nick Lehoczy were first with 66% and Vange and Jack Croucher were second with 62%.

They got together also at Club 35 last holiday Monday to play Euchre also. It's almost like through rain and sleet etc., etc., Euchre will be played in our County town!! Kay Orr won the 50/50 draw. Marion Farr took lone hands. The high scorers were Loretta Lamb and Ivan Kernohan. The lows were Marjorie Cowen and Tom Orr. Maxine Thomson won the baloney. Special prizes were awarded that night to Alvin Cowen, Verna Sawyer, Stan Walker and Anna Smithwick.

On May 26 at Stanhope Bid Euchre, seven moonshots were won. Muriel Harrington and Pearl Foster tied with 259. Norm Lee (again) got 266. Trudy Kroes came next with 293 and Neal Griffin topped the night with 311.

At the Minden Legion, on Tuesday, May 25, playing Senior's Bid Euchre, Ken Kroes, Ann Baker, and Iris Taylor were the top three winners and Shirley Elcome and Jean Scadden tied for fourth. (There seems to be ties in almost every game played last week!!) Marie Dennie won the hidden score. Ruth Kellett, Esther Lee, Howard Smith and Iris Taylor each won a moonshot.

At the Minden Legion on May 21, playing Euchre, Maria Tschida and Marg McAfee won most lone hands. Verna McDonald and Marcel Roussel were the high scorers. Elva Paisley and Iris Taylor were the lows. Other prizes were won by Kevin, Helen Lee, Helen Henderson and Joyce Cooper.

Wishing you good cards this week no matter what game you are playing!! You could take that as a profound statement!!

See you here next week!!
